

American Psychiatric Association Foundation 2018 Helping Hands Grants

Supported by a grant from Otsuka America Pharmaceutical, Inc.

MENTAL ILLNESS can profoundly disrupt a person's thinking, moods, ability to relate to others and capacity for coping with the demands of life. While mental illnesses can affect persons of any age, race, religion, or income level, a heightened need exists for improved mental health education and assistance particularly in underserved communities throughout the United States. The staggering individual and societal consequences of untreated mental illness include: unnecessary disability, unemployment, substance abuse and homelessness. Every year in the United States, the economic cost of untreated mental illness exceeds hundreds of billions of dollars.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The American Psychiatric Association Foundation established the Helping Hands Grant Program to encourage medical students to participate in community mental health and substance use disorder activities, particularly those focused on underserved populations. The program seeks to raise awareness of mental illness and the importance of early recognition. Additionally, the program seeks to build interest among medical students in the field of psychiatry.

Grants of up to $5,000 will be provided to medical schools for community mental health and substance use programs that are initiated and managed by medical students. These projects can be new initiatives conducted in partnership with community agencies or in conjunction with ongoing medical school outreach activities.

POSTER PRESENTATION

Recipients of the 2018-2019 Helping Hands grants will be invited to create and present a poster about their project at the American Psychiatric Association's Institute on Psychiatric Services (IPS) in October 2019. A small travel stipend will be offered to each recipient program to help offset the cost of travel for one or more representatives, but the amount will not vary. Information regarding the IPS will be available summer 2019.

"The Helping Hands grant has allowed our medical student-run free clinic...to screen over 150 patients for mental illness and help facilitate referrals to mental health agencies for those requiring care."

- Helping Hands Grant participant

ELIGIBILITY

Medical schools are eligible to apply for the grants. All projects must be conducted under the supervision of medical faculty, consisting of at least one psychiatrist. A member of the faculty must be identified as the project administrator. This does not need to be the psychiatrist. Medical students who lead the program must be in their second, third or fourth year of medical school at the time they are engaged in community service.

Innovative, new or replicable ideas are encouraged.

Some examples of activities that can be funded:

- Outreach and community education about mental health
- Mental health literacy programs
- Screenings and referrals in community health centers or homeless shelters utilizing validated tools

EVALUATION CRITERIA

Evaluation of submitted applications will include:

- The value to the community of the proposed project, particularly underserved populations
- The uniqueness of the proposed program, its ability to be replicated and the likelihood that it will meet its stated goals
- The extent to which it fosters medical student interest in psychiatry or underserved populations
- The structure and organization of the project and the extent to which medical students take a significant role in its design, planning, and operation
- The amount and appropriateness of physician oversight
- The likelihood and ability of a program's sustainability into the future (unless a short-term period is defined)
- The extent of utilization of existing materials (validated screening tools, health literacy brochures, etc.)

APPLICATION PROCESS AND TIMELINE

Many official documents, including the notification of the award will be sent via USPS. Please make sure the mailing address(es) will be valid during the summer. If seasonal addresses will be required, please make note.
- A project narrative (see next page for more details) not to exceed four double spaced, single-sided pages.
- Detailed budget and detailed budget justification. Your budget justification should explain each budgetary line item.
- A list of the medical students who will be participating in the project, including their medical school year at the time of the proposed project. If more than one medical student is participating, please indicate the primary contact(s) should be.
- A list of physicians (at least one psychiatrist must be involved) and administrators (including titles) on faculty who will provide oversight and management of the project, including the type and extent of supervision. Your project administrator must be one of these physicians or administrators, but does not need to be a psychiatrist.

- Does your program involve screening? What tools will be used to administer the screening? What will the referral and follow-up processes be? How long have these processes be in place?
- If applicable, how will the project be sustained after the funding period has expired?
- What evaluation will be utilized for your project? How will results be measured, used, disseminated and/or publicized?
- What is the budget you are requesting? How will each dollar be spent? (Budgets without a justification will render the application incomplete.) The budget should be detailed and justifications should be provided.
- If your school is a past grant recipient, is this a different or expanded project? (Helping Hands Grants will only support the same program for three consecutive years. After a two year period, the same program may be considered for support again.)
- What other information would you like us to know?

PLEASE NOTE:

- Grants cannot be used for physician personnel costs or payments to students or other professionals for activities related to the grant.
